Il Negronificio Di Theo

The Negroni remained relatively unknown for decades, offered mainly in Italian restaurants and bars. Over the past few years, this has changed drastically, with the majority of menus in the UK and Italy featuring the classic cocktail. Largely, the growth in its popularity is due to a resurgence in two cocktail staples: gin and bitters. The revival of the duo perfectly prepped drinkers' taste buds. It's a drink almost impossible to get wrong: the only danger, of course, is how easily you can make another one...

OUR SIGNATURE NEGRONI | 23

Our take on the famous cocktail combines premium spirits with a classic method. It's based on a Solera system: three different spirits from three different barrels are rotated from the youngest to the oldest one every two months in order to create a seductive concoction.

The recipe is always consistent and remains a closely guarded secret with a few of our own ingredients. The result is a deep amber coloured cocktail with aromas of oriental spices and cherry-chocolate notes.
